

NO DEFORESTATION COMMITMENT

Salmones Camanchaca is committed to protecting forest ecosystems and natural environments, ensuring sustainable practices, and refraining from any direct or indirect involvement in gross deforestation across all Company operations.

In addition to working collaboratively with our suppliers and business partners to ensure they also adhere to no-deforestation practices, we will encourage transparency and dialogue to promote sustainability throughout the supply chain.

We pledge to source products from suppliers whose manufacturing processes do not contribute to gross deforestation. To achieve this, Salmones Camanchaca's level 1 suppliers are required to adhere to this commitment, which is monitored by requesting evidence and/or reliable certifications of sustainable and deforestation-free and conversion-free practices from our suppliers. Particularly, for food suppliers, who represent our main providers and pose the highest risk of deforestation, sustainability criteria are included in the bidding process for this product.

Compliance with this policy is monitored through the request of Forest Stewardship Council certifications for the chain of custody of food suppliers and certifications of soy products by the Roundtable on Responsible Soy Association (RTRS), Proterra, or equivalent. Furthermore, we also monitor certifications for palm oil, which must be certified by the Roundtable on Sustainable Palm Oil (RSPO).

In this way, Salmones Camanchaca promotes environmentally appropriate management of the world's forests through a certification monitoring system that ensures the fulfillment of this commitment.
